Flying colours for King's troop

MANE ATTRACTION: crowds flocked to watch the troop inspection in Charlton Park, above and below, troop horses make an elegant display

King's Troop pass inspection test

THE Woolwich-based King's Troop Royal Horse Artillery was declared "fit to represent the nation" following its annual inspection last Tuesday (April 28) in Charlton Park by Major General Edward Smyth-Osbourne, General Officer Commanding The Household Division.

The horses and artillery troopers put on a demonstration of their world-famous Musical Drive for the Major General, while the Band of the Royal Artillery entertained the public who had gone along to watch.

The inspection determines whether the unit is fit to perform ceremonial and public duties for the next twelve months. The King's Troop Royal Horse Artillery is currently on stand-by to deliver a 41-round Royal Salute to celebrate the birth of the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge's second child.

The Major General rigorously inspected the standard of kit, the soldiers, the officers and the guns. The men and women of the Troop spend days polishing leather and brass, and behind every groomed mane, perfectly trimmed tail and glinting spur lie hours of physical effort, dedication and very early mornings. The display involved 68 magnificently turned–out horses and 59 soldiers.

The Musical Drive is one of the most spectacular displays of horsemanship in the world. It involves risk-laden, complex choreographed moves with split-second timing. Teams of six colour-matched horses drew each of six field guns and limbers. The guns in the Troop display are 13 pounders, which all saw service in the First World War.

The King's Troop Royal Horse Artillery is the senior unit of the British Army when on parade with its guns. It is responsible for firing Royal and ceremonial salutes, can be seen riding on the Queen's Birthday Parade, The State Opening of Parliament and State Visits, as well as participating in State Funerals.

"Give what you can" appeal from the Nepalese community

WE STAND TOGETHER: Councillors help local residents pack aid donations for victims of the Nepalese earthquake

THE borough is stepping up to support a full-scale rallying call to help victims of the Nepalese earthquake.

by Dick Townsend-Smith

Piles of emergency supplies such as baby food and sleeping bags have been handed into Woolwich Town Hall after an appeal by the Mayor, Cllr Mick Hayes, and council leader Cllr Denise Hyland.

Three Nepalese nurses who live locally and work in London hospitals flew out last Monday (April 27) to offer medical care to the injured. They took with them emergency medicines bandages and antiseptic cream donated by local pharmacists. Another four female nurses were due to fly out on Saturday.

Greenwich has one of the largest Nepalese populations in London. Community leader Fatta Thapa is a trustee with Skills and Care CIC, a support for the Nepalese community. He said: "All the nurses who are going out come from the areas that have been badly affected. One of our group saw them off from Heathrow, with all the emergency donations from the pharmacists.

"I want to thank Denise Hyland and the Mayor for their very rapid action to help us. The local Nepalese community really appreciate the help that people are giving, and their donations.

We are currently co-coordinating with the Embassy of Nepal in London, local Nepalese communities, and charities to raise whatever support we can."

The Mayor and Cllr Hyland issued a statement, saying: "Greenwich has one of the largest Nepalese communities in London, for whom this is a desperately worrying time. The royal borough stands by these members of our community and will do all we can to support them. We are supporting local community organisations who are collecting blankets and other essential items to be sent to Nepal.

"If you can spare any of the following items please bring them to Woolwich Town Hall, and they will be collected by a local charity which is working closely with the Nepalese Embassy and international aid agencies to fly them out to some of the villages in Nepal that have been hardest hit.

"We would also encourage local people to support the fundraising appeals that have been launched by donating to the Disasters Emergency Committee's Nepal Earthquake Appeal at www.dec.org.uk or telephone 0370 60 60 900. We are sure that local residents, employees and businesses will want to do all they can to help."

Woolwich Town Hall is open Monday to Friday from 9am to 6pm and on Saturday from 9am to 1pm.

Meanwhile, businesses and organisations in the have been arranging events and fund-raisers

to help the earthquake victims.

The Everest Inn Gurkha restaurant in Blackheath village is holding a fund-raising evening on Monday, May 11, for a minimum donation of £30 per head. Owner Yagav Bhandari said: "It's a minimum of £30 per person which will includes finger food and welcome drinks and every penny that collected on the night will go 100 per cent directly to the charity in Nepal. And we would like to request everyone to book or confirm their presence by email: blackheath@everestinn.co.uk or telephone 020 8852 7872.

"On the same evening at 6.30pm we will have a minute's silence with candles outside the restaurant, when people can come and pray, and remember all the victims who have lost their lives. We have been collecting tents, sleeping bags and dried food in the restaurant, and we have opened a book of condolences."

> "We are sure that local residents, employees and businesses will want to do all they can to help"

At the Coffee Lounge at Equitable House in General Gordon Square, Woolwich, the Nepalese owner, Vishal Tamang, said: "My family – my mother, my father and my brother – are sleeping in the fields because their house was trembling during the earthquake, and people were scared. It's cold for them. Here, we are trying to raise money, and all of last week's takings from people buying ice cream will go to the relief fund."

Five Red Cross nurses led by Neyomi Ivy from Plumstead plus two volunteers flew out from Heathrow to Katmandu last Wednesday (April 29) with essential medical supplies, tents and sleeping bags. Their tickets were paid for by Tenzin Dakapa, owner of the Kailash Momo restaurant in Woolwich New Road which serves Nepalese and Tibetan food.

Said Tenzin: "They took what people had been handing in at the restaurant. They were allowed 40 kilos each, and the airline gave them priority. I also gave Neyomi's group £2,000 for their expenses and more medical supplies. People have been very moved by what has happened. My customers have been asking us if our families are OK. It seems people want to do something to help. We are collecting clothes and equipment like tents and supplies, and I'd like people to bring them to the restaurant so we can send them to the people who need them."

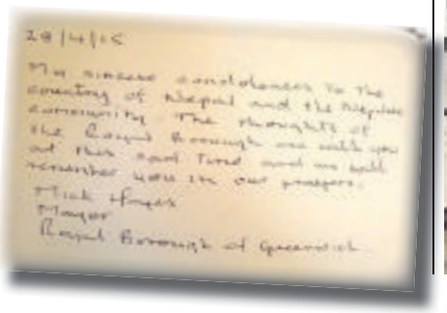

Steve Nelson, the Principal Director of the South East Chamber of Commerce, said: "The Chamber will do whatever it can in terms of publicising the need for donations and fundraising."

Soldiers at Woolwich Barracks have been busy loading vans with relief supplies like clothing and torches. These are then being sent to a central depot ready to be flown out to Nepal. This is being co-ordinated by Capt Yog Thapa, who is Nepalese. He is also involved in sending Gurkha military engineers out to the earthquake areas from their base in Chatham.

● The Skills and Care CIC community group for mainly elderly Nepalese people locally will be raising funds for families suffering from the earthquake with a 'bring and share' event when it holds its annual 'Big Lunch' at Charlton Athletic Community Trust on June 7. It wants donations of collectables, antiques and craftwork to sell.

Power for the people!

MORE than 5,400 people in the borough have now signed up to the Big London Energy Switch, giving them lower fuel bills and savings that average £250 per household.
The scheme is a joint initiative run by local authorities in London. Working together, they can negotiate better deals with electricity suppliers because the high number of users gives them stronger buying power.
The latest tariff this created was better than anything available through suppliers or online switching providers.
Total savings achieved for Royal Greenwich residents since the scheme began in April 2013 are now running at £131,000.
The Big London Energy Switch has been enthusiastically supported by the council as part of its efforts to help vulnerable people on low incomes who can least afford higher bills.

Changes to bin collections

WASTE and recycling collections are taking place a day later this week and then revert back to normal days from next Monday – May 11. Clinical collection days stay the same. More info at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/holidaybincollections

More firms sign up to London Living Wage

TEN businesses in the borough are now fully accredited members of the London Living Wage scheme after signing up to a council scheme, meaning they get a discount on the business rates they pay to the council.

Another 60 firms have also said they want to sign up to the scheme, and are in the process of securing accreditation with the Living Wage Foundation.
The council is offering business rates discounts to the first hundred local companies that become accredited this year. The discount covers five years' worth of London Living Wage subscriptions. The offer aims to encourage local businesses committed to the scheme to support their local communities and the local economy generally by paying staff the London Living Wage.
The council is itself an accredited London Living Wage employer, paying all staff a minimum of £9.15 per hour.
Employers that pay the London Living Wage have made valuable savings by improving staff recruitment, retaining more staff, cutting absenteeism, and raising their profile as a London Living Wage employer.
One firm signed up to the scheme is Capital Roofing in Westcombe Hill, Blackheath, founded in 1968 and now run by brothers Gary and Terry Peck.
Terry said: "We are accredited to the scheme, and it definitely helps us to retain staff – we don't ever get people leaving us! I would definitely encourage other employers in the borough to sign up to it because there are a lot of advantages."
The rate has been increased to recognise how much more expensive it is to live in the capital. It is a voluntary scheme, but only a few hundred companies in London are accredited living wage employers – but the number has doubled over the last 12 months.
For more information go to the council's website at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk and type in London Living Wage, or email the council's Business Team at business@royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Top marks for school gas safety talk

A team of gas safety engineers got top marks from teachers at Halstow Primary School when they went to talk about gas safety.
Their talk followed a suspected gas leak at the Greenwich school when all 300 pupils had to be evacuated with the help of SGN, which operates gas mains and services in Scotland and the south of England.
Cheryl Howells, team manager at SGN's London depot in Kennington and her team gave the children a chance to look at some of the equipment used in their day-to-day work. She said: "Although the children were pleased to get an afternoon off school, the headteacher told us they didn't really understand why they had been evacuated."
"They asked lots of very intelligent questions about our work and about natural gas.
As part of SGN's Community Action Programme where every employee gets a day to help their local community, the London depot team will return to the school later in the spring to install bicycle and scooter racks and frog-shaped rubbish bins for the children to encourage them to recycle.

Polling stations are open from 7am to 10pm and polling staff will be happy to give assistance where wanted, especially for people who have a disability or who haven't voted before.

Every polling station is accessible, and usually within a few minutes' walk from most people's homes.

167,322 people are eligible to vote in Royal Greenwich for their MP in the parliamentary constituencies of Eltham, Greenwich and Woolwich, and Erith and Thamesmead. There is also a local by-election for one councillor to be elected in the Greenwich West ward.

Most people will have received their poll card telling them where to go, but it doesn't matter if you have mislaid or not received your poll card, so long as you are on the polling station voters' list. Just go along to your polling station and give your name and address to the polling staff, who will find you in their register if you are registered and give you your ballot paper.

Residents can check where their polling station is at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/findpollingstation

Voting is easy; just one vote for the candidate of your choice on the ballot paper. Voters put their ballot papers into the secure polling station ballot box, which is sealed at the close of the poll.

If any elector finds that, either because of an unexpected medical reason or because of an unexpected employment or occupational reason they cannot get to their polling station on Thursday, they can apply to vote by proxy, which means appointing somebody to vote for you at your polling station. Application forms are at www.aboutmyvote.co.uk/register-to-vote/apply-to-vote-by-proxy

These 'emergency proxy' applications need to be made as soon as possible, as the application deadline is 5pm on polling day.

If you have a postal vote and haven't put it in the post by this Wednesday, you can bring your properly completed postal vote to a polling station in their constituency before 10pm and give it to the polling staff inside, who will arrange to get it (unopened and secure) to the Returning Officer that day so it can be checked and included in the count.

Once voting closes all the ballot boxes are brought by polling staff to the count centre as quickly as possible, where about 180 counting staff will count the votes.

It is always difficult to predict when election results will be declared, but it is hoped the Greenwich results should be declared around 4am, though this may depend on the voting turnout and whether there are any recounts. The Mayor of Greenwich, Councillor Mick Hayes, makes the formal announcement and the results will be available on the council's website, or on twitter @Royal_Greenwich, immediately after they are announced.

● For more information and advice about voting please go to www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/elections

Well tonne!

Waste collected in two hours after great race

by Dan Stephens

THE annual marathon effort by the council's teams to get local streets cleaned up following the big race took place last Sunday (April 26).

Council staff saw to the clean-up of the local area after this year's London Marathon in record time – to be specific, two hours and fifteen minutes, the same as Paula Radcliffe's world record breaking finish in 2003!

A total of 73 members of staff, of which 11 were apprentices, contributed to the clean-up and were aided by seven mechanical sweepers and three refuse trucks. This year 4.78 tonnes of plastic bottles were cleared from affected streets, which is over twice as much as last year. Additionally 500kg of textiles was donated to charity for distribution.

Cllr Jackie Smith the cabinet member for community safety and environment said: "Well done to everyone in our street cleansing teams who helped to get the borough looking spick and span within hours of the race passing through."

Among the thousands of entrants running for worthy causes was a nine-strong team fundraising for South London Special League - the Mayor's chosen charity. They are expected to raise around £80,000 to support young athletes with disabilities.

ChariTEA begins at home

Monthly tea parties create a chance for friendships

by Dan Stephens

WELCOME PARTY: tea party guests gather at the home of a volunteer

A GROUP which hosts monthly tea parties for isolated older people is urging royal borough residents to support the national charity behind the initiative, Contact the Elderly, as it celebrates 50 years of helping combat loneliness in older people.

Volunteers and older people from the Greenwich branch of Contact the Elderly celebrated the charity's Golden Jubilee with a special 'Big FifTEA' party last month.

The 'Big FifTEA' party in Greenwich was one of hundreds of celebrations nationally, with over 5,000 older people and volunteers across marking the valuable work of Contact the Elderly over the last five decades.

The charity aims to relieve the acute loneliness of people aged 75 and over by organising monthly Sunday tea parties. Supported by a network of volunteer drivers and hosts, the tea parties provide guests with much-needed regular face-to-face contact. Contact the Elderly tea parties always take place on a Sunday when most other services are unavailable and older people can feel particularly lonely.

A monthly tea party can make such a difference to someone's life and with 570 groups and over 7,500 volunteers across the UK, the charity is now appealing for more volunteers and local funding in order to access older people, many of whom do not have regular face-to-face contact with anyone other than a carer or the postman.

Contact the Elderly volunteer Christina Jackson, said: "Every month I see the difference that the tea parties we hold here in Greenwich make to local older people who are lonely and isolated. Friendships have formed between younger volunteers and older guests, who really look forward to spending an afternoon having tea, cake and a good chat.

"Having seen the difference that our parties make to the health and happiness of older people in our community, I would urge local people to support Contact the Elderly in any way they can. We're in need of more volunteers and donations to help us reach more isolated older people and would appreciate any support that local people or businesses can give."

The Big London ENERGY SWITCH

A scheme to help Londoners get a better deal on their gas and electricity bills

Are you paying too much for your gas and electricity?

Over 5000 Greenwich residents have registered for the Big London Energy Switch since the scheme began. The results of the last round in February 2015 were the best yet – with average savings in Greenwich of over £250 and winning tariffs better than anything available direct from suppliers or via price comparison services.

How does the scheme work?

- The Big London Energy Switch is a collective switching scheme being run by the Royal Borough of Greenwich and a number of other councils in London
- By gathering together a large number of people who want to lower their gas and electricity bills the Big London Energy Switch, using a third party 'switching provider', can encourage energy companies to offer their lowest prices
- Once registration is closed, all the energy companies are invited to offer their best prices to everyone who registered
- You will then receive details of exactly how much money you could potentially save by switching if you accept the offer
- You can choose to accept the offer or not

Unique service remem

by Dlck Townsend-Smith

ELTHAM'S historic Gallipoli Chapel at Holy Trinity Church marked the 100th anniversary of the First World War landings at Gallipoli with a special service of remembrance.

Gallipoli was the defining campaign of 1915 that centred on a narrow finger of land in Turkey known as the Gallipoli Peninsula. In total, 14,750 allied soldiers died and at least 85,000 Turkish soldiers lost their lives.

Among those who attended the service on Saturday, April 25, were Emirhan Yorulmazlar, Turkey's Consul General in London, and the Bishop of Woolwich, the Rt Rev Dr Michael Ipgrave. Others included the borough's Mayor and Mayoress, Cllr and Mrs Mick Hayes, Foster Summerson of the Gallipoli Association, representatives of the Royal British Legion, and regimental and community groups.

Cadet groups were represented by the 56 Woolwich Squadron Royal Air Force Cadets and the 95 London Scottish Army Cadets from Eltham. One hundred poppies were specially made by church youth club members and their leaders June Knowles and Annie Osborne.

The chapel, in Southend Crescent, is the only one of its kind in the world to be dedicated to the campaign. It was created in 1917 by Henry Hall, then vicar of the parish, who had served as chaplain to the British Army's 29th Division at the landings. In a letter home, he wrote: "The landing was awful – men and officers shot down in shoals, caught in the wire, killed, wounded, drowned. The 29th Division has accomplished what the Germans deemed impossible. They have forced a landing on the Gallipoli Peninsula but alas, at a heavy cost in lives." He returned safely, but with a strong desire to create a permanent memorial to all who served and lost their lives in the campaign.

The chapel, in Southend Crescent, is the only one of its kind in the world to be dedicated to the campaign.

The chapel is also home to a memorial bench and cushion to Lance Corporal Jake Alderton who lived locally and died in Afghanistan in November 2007 while serving with 20 Field Squadron, 36 Engineer Regiment. He is also being remembered in the royal borough's Book of Remembrance for local people who have fallen while on active military service.

The chapel has been used for an annual Gallipoli memorial service every year since 1921, and a fund was launched by the congregation to refurbish it for the campaign's centenary year. A Ministry of Defence grant, provided through the Armed Forces Community Covenant scheme, has been awarded to Holy Trinity to provide an interactive display so people can learn more about the Gallipoli campaign.

All set for VE Day celebrations

nbers Gallipoli soldiers

THE borough is gearing up for this weekend's celebrations to mark the 70th anniversary of VE Day, the 1945 landmark that saw Victory in Europe over the Nazi regime after six years of the Second World War.

Just like 70 years ago when whole communities turned out to sing and dance, the weekend will see events both sombre and joyous. The Eltham branch of the Royal British Legion will be laying a wreath at the War Memorial near St John's Church at 11am on Friday, which is VE Day.

Branch Chairman Barry Nugent said: "The next day, on Saturday, we are holding an all-day party outside the Conservative Club in Eltham High Street. There will be lots happening, with people encouraged dress up as 'Dad's Army' characters, and raising money for the Legion."

Later on Saturday between 7.30pm and 10pm, the BBC's star-studded VE Day evening concert will be shown live via videolink on the Big Screen in General Gordon Square, Woolwich. So come along, and bring a picnic. It features a spectacular line-up including some of the biggest recording artists, performers, stars and celebrities in live entertainment, including Pixie Lott, Gregory Porter, Laura Wright, Katherine Jenkins, Rebecca Fergurson, Alfie Boe, Jamelia, Blue, Elaine Paige, Status Quo, Diversity, Alexander Armstrong, Chas and Dave, Elaine Paige, and Strictly Come Dancing professionals.

The concert, taking place at London's Horse Guards Parade Ground, will be hosted by Chris Evans.

Over the weekend 111 beacons will be lit across the UK, including 4 in Woolwich at sunset to mark the anniversary of VE Day, and communities are being encouraged to organise or take part in celebrations that will celebrate the extraordinary generation who played such an important role in defending our country.

There will also be a service of thanksgiving at Westminster Abbey which will be attended by Her Majesty the Queen and members of the Royal Family. The Royal British Legion has invited Second World War veterans from across the country to join the national commemorations in London, and is paying the travel costs for them and their carers.

Just like 70 years ago when whole communities turned out to sing and dance, the weekend will see events both sombre and joyous.

NEW European plays, translated into English for the first time, are being performed as part of a two-day festival in Woolwich this weekend (May 8&9).

Greenwich & Lewisham Young People's Theatre is co-hosting Theatre Café Woolwich along with Greenwich University and theatre group Company of Angels.

The festival will see performances of six contemporary European plays in professional staged readings, with panel discussions - and all meals provided.

Theatre Café Woolwich will take place at The Tramshed and University of Greenwich's Bathway Theatre.

The line up includes plays from across Europe including:

- Megan's Story by Tuomas Timonen (Finland)
- Stuttgart/Tehran by Reihanah Youzbashi Dizaji (Germany)
- Obsession by Arnost Goldflam (Czech Republic)
- Jump Out of Skin by Zuza Ferenczova (Slovakia)
- Against Progress by Esteve Soler (Spain)
- Still Life in a Ditch by Fausto Paravidino (Italy)

It's specifically a chance for arts professionals, teachers and young people in particular to hear new plays, be a part of the conversation about the work and network with like-minded industry people.

The two-day event follows successful theatre cafe events in York, Oslo, and Berlin, and precedes performances in Frankfurt and Amsterdam.

Running alongside are special programmes bringing four emerging writers together with 30 young people to create brand new work inspired by the international connections made at the festivals.

GLYPT spokesperson Zoe Bateman said: "The Theatre Cafés provide an informal opportunity to experience some of the best new writing from across Europe in an intimate café-style setting."

Full passes are £60, Friday passes £45, and Saturday passes £15. Tickets include access to all readings and discussions and catering. To book, visit the Theatre Café website www.theatrecafe.eu where you will find the booking form.

- The Theatre Cafe comes ahead of the launch of the Greenwich Children's Theatre Festival (May 23-31) which forms part of a summer long programme of events under the umbrella of the Royal Greenwich Festivals. Watch out for more information in Greenwich Time or visit www.festival.org

ARTISTS have always worked better with space; the tapestry at Bayeux ran to 70 metres, Michelangelo's Sistine Chapel spanned more than 500, while Anthony Gormley's controversial, brown angel has a wingspan the size of a plane. Yet many face a challenge of finding expansive and exciting spaces to work in capable of letting their creativity flourish.

Second Floor Studios & Arts have found a solution to this on-going challenge and it's innovative, simple and quick. "We provide affordable studio space to local, creative artists," Nichole Herbert Wood, operations director, told Greenwich Time. "From visual and fine artists to craft and design makers, the mix is really amazing". The studio rents are most reasonable – between £9-£14 per square foot – and competitively, very attractive.

"Our aims are quite simple - to provide affordable space, a supportive environment and inspire creativity in the local community," Nichole stated clearly.

It was originally founded in 1997 by Nichole's now husband, Matthew Wood, an abstract artist, a response to his own difficulty finding space. Almost 20 years later his concept is flourishing, and today it is the largest, single-site, studio space development in London. "We're 99% occupied and we're constantly looking for space," Nichole went on brightly.

With over 400 members, the Studios are self-funding and the range of experience remarkable.

"We have recent young graduates, long-established professionals and everyone else in between," Nichole added. An integral part of Second Floor's annual planning are their bi-annual, Open Events. The public are invited into members' private space to browse, and often purchase their wares. But founder, Matthew Wood, was quite adamant in its purpose: "The financial implications secondary - these events are integral to our community engagement." An additional aspect of Studio's community commitment, are their "Charity Postcard" events called Anonymous. Local artists submit original works on postcards the size of A5. All priced at £20 these are sold with the money going to local charities Greenwich Mind and WSUP, a Woolwich-based charity supporting people with alcohol and drug dependency. Revocation proposal: expansion of Alderwood Primary School

In accordance with School Organisation (Prescribed Alterations to Maintained Schools) (England) Regulations 2013, the Royal Borough of Greenwich is proposing to revoke a previous decision to expand Alderwood Primary School.

The Council previously proposed enlargement of the school premises at Alderwood Primary School (a community school), Rainham Close, SE9 2JH with effect from 1 September 2013. This proposal was to expand the capacity of the school from 210 to 420 places in permanent accommodation, to meet expected demand.

The statutory notice for the original proposal was published on 22 January 2013 and approval for the expansion was given at the Cabinet meeting of 20th March 2013.

The Council is required by the School Organisation (Prescribed Alterations to Maintained Schools) (England) Regulations 2013 to formally publish revocation proposals where it does not intend to proceed with a previously approved proposal. This is not expected to have an adverse impact on school places or parental preference because the additional places have not been taken up at this school and demand is not expected to increase beyond capacity.

Further information can be viewed on the Royal Greenwich website, or obtained by emailing the contact below. Within four weeks from the date of publication of this proposal (ie by 2nd June), any person may object or make comments on this revocation proposal by:

email to Philip.watson@royalgreenwich.gov.uk

or posting views to: Philip Watson, Place Planning Team, 1st Floor, Royal Borough of Greenwich, The Woolwich Centre, Wellington Street, Woolwich, SE18 6HQ.

The Council previously proposed enlargement of the school premises, utilising the adjacent Kings Park building on Eltham Palace Road, changing the school designation to co-educational, and to increase the range of need, with effect from September 2015.

The statutory notice for the original proposal was published on 2 June 2014, and approval for the expansion was given at the Cabinet meeting of 23 July 2014.

The Council is required by the School Organisation (Prescribed Alterations to Maintained Schools) (England) Regulations 2013 to formally publish revocation proposals where it does not intend to proceed with a previously approved proposal. This is not expected to have an adverse impact on Moatbridge Special School or special educational needs provision within the borough, as the additional places envisaged at the Kings Park centre will be provided through other management arrangements.

Further information can be viewed on the Royal Greenwich website, or obtained by emailing the contact below. Within four weeks from the date of publication of this proposal (ie by 2nd June), any person may object or make comments on this revocation proposal by

or posting views to: Philip Watson, Place Planning Team, 1st Floor, Royal Borough of Greenwich, The Woolwich Centre, Wellington Street, Woolwich, SE18 6HQ.

BIDDING FOR PROPERTIES

People on the Housing register are able to bid for all properties, regardless of their banding. You must be eligible for the size of property and bids will be considered in the following order:

First Band A, followed by Band B both in priority date order.
Those in Band C will then be considered in registration date order.

Please note that there will still be some properties with age restrictions so only people of this age group can apply for these.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and B.

How do I apply?

1 Get on the list
First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, register an application on line at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk

2 Find your applicant number
It will be on the letter you've already had from the Royal Borough of Greenwich about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

3 Pick out your ideal property
by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website: www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes
Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free at either The Eltham or Woolwich Centre or a local library.

4 Apply in one of three ways
- Text bidding is now available and the number to use is 07786207913. For further information please see page 2, or
- Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic push-button system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
- Via the Royal Borough of Greenwich's website www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

Small is beautiful
the Under Occupation scheme

If you are living in a Council property that is too big for you, we can help you to move to somewhere smaller.
The Council will pay your removal costs, and £350 for each bedroom gained.

To join the scheme you must be willing to move to a home with two bedrooms less than you have now:

- 3 bedroom to a 1 bedroom home
- 3 bedroom parlour/4 bedroom to a 1 or 2 bedroom home
- 5 bedroom to a 3 bedroom (or smaller) home

IMPORTANT NOTICE FOR ROYAL BOROUGH TENANTS WHO ARE MOVING

DON'T GET A BILL AFTER YOU LEAVE

Under the conditions of your tenancy agreement, you have a responsibility to leave your property in an acceptable state of repair. We may visit you to check this. If we consider your property is in an unacceptable condition, you may be prevented from moving or be recharged for work.

- Make sure your garden is not overgrown and you have cleared all garden waste.
- Clear all your items from the inside and the outside of the property. This includes any loft space, external cupboards or sheds.
- Return all the keys to the Royal Borough's offices no later than midday on Monday (or Tuesday if it is a Bank Holiday). You will be charged a further week's rent if you do not return your keys on time.

MEDAL OF HONOUR: local swimmers complete their challenge

An amazing £13,000 has been raised for the Marie Curie charity thanks to dedicated swimmers taking part in this year's Swimathon. The annual fundraiser took place at leisure centres in the royal borough and involved over 200 people taking on 12 dedicated challenges.

Swimathon is a nationwide swimming challenge that encourages swimmers up and down the UK to swim a variety of challenge distances at their local pool and raise money for charity.

Over the past 27 years of Swimathon, more than half a million swimmers have taken part, raising over £40million for charitable causes.

● For more information on Swimathon please visit www.swimathon.org, or if you would like to start swimming with us please visit www.better.org.uk/lessonsandcourses or visit your nearest Better Leisure Centre for more information.
